

From: James Sneddon
To: medboardconsultation
Subject: Asynchronous and Sexual Health
Date: Tuesday, 11 April 2023 10:21:55 AM

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.

To whom it may concern

I appreciate its too late for us to make a submission, however I am hopeful that the final guidelines do not completely exclude asynchronous healthcare, as it is greatly facilitating patient activation in sexual health, proof there are places for asynchronous healthcare. Further there is significant academic research and abroad in addition to our own evidence that supports asynchronous healthcare being great for better patient outcomes in sexual health.

The proposed guidelines changes have wreaked havoc, with insurers anticipating the change and leaving the industry scrambling to ensure our doctors, your constituents are protected. I know patients are also your constituents, and we are now Australia's largest sexual health service. We've bootstrapped, and struggled our way here, and now it is all threatened because of the blanket approach to asynchronous healthcare.

If you would like us to provide any further insight into our model or to make another submission please let me know.

Please do the right thing.

Thanks

James Sneddon

Co-Founder and CEO, Hyphen Health Group

Phone 1300479023 Mobile [REDACTED]

Web hyphen.health Email [REDACTED]

PO Box 275, Singleton NSW 2330

This email and any attachments are proprietary and confidential and are intended solely for the use of the individual to whom it is addressed. Any views or opinions expressed are solely those of the author and do not necessarily reflect or represent those of PrEP Health Pty Ltd or HYPHEN.HEALTH.

If you have received this email in error, please let us know immediately by reply email and delete it from your system. You may not use, disseminate, distribute or copy this message nor disclose its contents to anyone.

PrEP Health Pty Ltd (77646122910) trading as Hyphen Health and all subsidiaries, PO Box 275, Singleton, New South Wales, 2330.